

JAPAN IN THE AGE OF FRAYING INTERNATIONAL ORDER

APRIL 7
6PM PACIFIC

IN JAPAN
APRIL 8TH
10AM

Presented by

PSU Center for Japanese Studies

co-sponsored by

University College Dublin Centre for Japanese Studies

Hokkaido University

PSU Institute for Asian Studies

PSU Department of World Languages & Literatures

FREE

Online Zoom Event

This presentation explores Japan's role in the age of a fraying international order. Professor Endo will analyze the dominant trends and issues in the contemporary world with special focus on the dismaying performance of the advanced democracies, the rise of authoritarian regimes, as well as the hegemonic rivalry between China and the United States. Professor Endo will then turn his attention to the implications of a frayed international order for Japan, and consider Japan's expected international role in these new circumstances. He will conclude with remarks on the potential for Japan-U.S.-Europe cooperation.

Speaker

Ken Endo

Ken Endo (遠藤 乾) is Professor of International Politics, School of Law & Dean of the Graduate School of Public Policy, Hokkaido University, Sapporo. He is also Part-time Professor Global Governance Programme, EU-ASIA Project, European University Institute (EUI).

REGISTER

