Guarantor and Emergency contact person

A guarantor is generally required when renting a house or apartment in Japan. If this is the case, you will need to apply to a private guarantee company.

The guarantee company requires emergency contacts. One should be one of your parents/relatives in your home country, and the other person one of your friends living in Japan. But conditions vary between guarantee companies (e.g. emergency contacts should be a Japanese national or shouldn't be a student, etc.), so please consult with the agency about that in advance.

Please note that university personnel and teachers cannot be your emergency contact person or guarantor. Do NOT ask them to be your guarantor nor emergency contact person!
